

Pennsylvania Survey: Small Businesses Need Healthcare Reform

The high cost of health insurance is a financial burden for small businesses.

Small businesses in Pennsylvania support healthcare reform to relieve them from skyrocketing health insurance rates, according to results of a telephone survey conducted in May 2009 and sponsored by Small Business Majority. The survey found:

- 51% of Pennsylvania small business owners polled reported that they pay for health insurance for their employees. Of those, 71% say they are really struggling to do so.
- Of the 49% of small employers that don't provide insurance, 87% say they can't afford it.
- 72% say healthcare reform is important for getting the economy back on track.
- The number one concern for Pennsylvania small businesses in healthcare reform is controlling costs, followed by providing coverage for everybody and an assurance of high-quality, standard minimum benefits.

Small businesses want reform in many parts of the system.

- A large majority of respondents (90%) agree that people should be able to buy health insurance without regard to any past health problems, and 75% see these preexisting condition rules as barriers to starting a business.
- Pennsylvania small business owners appreciate choice—74% prefer the option of a public or private health plan, while just 17% are interested only in a private plan, and 4% prefer only a public option.

Many employers agree they have a role in expanding access to coverage.

- 72% say it's important for individuals, employers, insurers, the government and healthcare providers to share the responsibility for making healthcare more affordable.
- 62% believe that their company has a responsibility to provide health insurance for its employees.
- 56% agree that employers should pay some percentage of their payroll toward their employees' insurance if they don't offer a plan themselves.

Respondents are politically varied.

- 47% of respondents identified themselves as Republican, 28% as Democrat and 17% as independent.
